

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

August 31, 2017

Mayor Luttrell Hosts Leadership Summit on September 30th

Shelby County Mayor Mark Luttrell's Young Professionals Council (MYPC) will host a leadership summit next month to highlight the successes of Memphis area community initiatives developed and led by young professionals.

The summit, We Don't Bluff, We Lead!, is free and will be held on Saturday, September 30, 2017 at Memphis Bioworks Foundation, 20 South Dudley Street at 10 a.m. Lunch is included.

"This will be a unique opportunity for young professionals to meet and share ideas with influential leaders in our community. The presentations will encourage young people to take note of their talents and invest them here locally," said Shelby County Mayor Mark H. Luttrell, Jr.

Mayor Luttrell created the young professionals council soon after taking office in 2010 to encourage young people to be part of the local business community and to get involved in efforts that will improve the quality of life throughout Shelby County.

Topics of the summit:

- Making an Impact in Shelby County
- Leading by Example: Taking on Shelby County
- Relationship Building for a Cause

The keynote speaker will be Todd Richardson, who directed the nationally known Crosstown Arts project.

Other speakers include:

- John Zeanah, Memphis 3.0 – Memphis and Shelby County Division of Planning and Development
- Judge Mary L. Wagner, Shelby County Circuit Court Judge
- Ekundayo Bandele, CEO of Hattiloo Theatre
- Anjelica Hardin-Hall, Principal Consultant at Hardin McLean Agency

Go to www.ypslead2017.eventbrite.com to register. For more information about Mayor Luttrell's Young Professional Council, go to shelbycountymypc@gmail.com or their page on Facebook.

End of Release